In this publication, readers are offered a unique archival document stored in the Russian State Archive of Literature and Art: the memoirs of Mikhail Fabianovich, the younger brother in the Gnessin family, about Alexander Nikolaevich Scriabin. They describe the meetings and communication of Scriabin with Gnessin, as well as other contemporaries.
Although the memoirs were not completed by the author, they nevertheless reveal a new page in the relationship between the two composers, therefore they are of undoubted interest to the reader.
